A Theory Which Has Sinister Implications

In his dissent to the Supreme Court majority steel seizure decision, Fred Vinson, Chief Justice of the United States, made a point which Congress is not likely to overlook in deciding what to do about the effect of treaties on the laws of the nation.

Vinson argued that the United Nations charter and the North Atlantic Treaty bind the United States to resist armed attack against any member nation. Said he:

"Our treaties represent not merely legal obligations, but show congressional recognition that mutual security for the free world is the best security against the threat of aggression on a global scale." He seemed to say that the steel seizure was justified because this nation's international obligations supersede domestic laws.

Justice Jackson took exception. He said:

"No doctrine that the Court could promulgate would seem to me more sinister and alarming than that a president, whose conduct of foreign affairs is so largely uncontrolled, and often even is unknown, can vastly enlarge his mastery over the internal affairs of the country by his own commitment of the nation's armed forces to some foreign venture."

A constitutional amendment has been proposed directing that nothing in treaties shall be considered as abrogating American laws. If the fear gains currency that treaties will result in the remaking of this country's system of government, and even its social structure, foreign policy will be subjected to a more thorough going-over than it has been receiving.

Foreign Crops

Americans formerly read crop reports from Canada and Argentina to ascertain probable effect on grain prices in this country. That was before the day of national and international controls and stabilized prices as a result of government propping.

Now the most interesting farm crop reports are those from Russia and satellites. Big crops in that area might be a threat to world peace. No would-be conqueror, however ambitious, would want to go to war on short rations.

A late spring is seriously complicating 1952 planting in the Soviet Union, according to Russian newspapers. There was a warm winter which produced little snowfall and in April warmth and cold alternated to keep seeders inactive. This has affected Russia's richest food provinces. But because of the late moisture winter wheat is progressing well.

Russian crop reports also have an impact on the cold war. Moscow plans to use grain exports as a weapon of economic warfare and to disrupt the unity of the free countries. If crops in Russia are good, the Reds are expected to be more belligerent.

It is well for the peace of the world that Russia will never be a consistently big food producer because of extremes of hot and cold, wet and dry, weather. Fortunately, too, Russia has no satellites that are major food producers. One reason crop production is poor is in the forced collective farm system which the peasants resist.

Eventually, an economist predicts, a man will work only three hours a day. That is, after he has found a parking place.

The height of popularity is about to be attained by uncommitted Republican and Democratic delegates.

Spirit Of Ike's Mother Still Lives

NEW YORK, June 19 — (AP) — Dwight Eisenhower's mother was not there when he came home to Abilene the other day. She has gone now.

The spirit of her, though, the very essence of this woman, is so strong that it breathes from every corner of their home. Indeed, the old house is a perfect self-portrait, something she made and colored forever with the rich deep shades of personality.

Her niece, Mrs. Ray Etherington, still lives up the road a way. She calls her "Aunt Ida."

"She must have been very strong," I said, "as a person."

"She was," Mrs. Etherington said. "Of them all, Aunt Ida was the most vivid, the dominant one. Of course, you wouldn't think it to look at her."

In the photographs of her as a young woman, her chin is small and pointed. There is a firmness about her mouth, and yet the faintest shadow of a smile, too. Her hair is thick and it looks dark in the picture. In her eyes, there is that same intimation of a smile something felt rather than seen. Her eyebrows are high and dark, and they give her an arch, knowing expression.

This expression must have been very marked on her face when she pretended not to notice that the boys had taken her bread dough from the Old Pennsylvania Dutch dough tray in the kitchen, rolled it into balls and were playing catch behind her back. And all her life she pretended not to recognize the nickname, "Ike," although every one of the boys—and not Dwight, alone—was known as "Ike" at one time or another. "Ike?" she would say sweetly. "Who is Ike?"

She was an intensely religious woman. The family Bible, with the names of her sons and their birth dates, lies open in the living room. In the book shelves are faded editions of "Bible Studies," "Our Beacon Light," "The Life of Christ," and "Religious Devotions." Framed mottoes from the Bible hang above the two brass bedsteads in the room she kept for herself and her husband.

All this is just as it was when she went away for the last time. Except for one thing, and this is a thing she would not have permitted, if she had been there because she never allowed things to lie around. Her wedding dress, of white silk and lace, lies diagonally across her bed for visitors to see.

It is a size nine. She was a small woman. Yet, she maintained a home for five boys and a man, by herself. She made some of their clothes on the sewing machine in the bedroom, handled the family washing, baked her own bread and pies, and stirred up cauldrons of a mysterious dish called "pudding meat." The way of making it seems to have been lost.

"And so Aunt Ida never was able to go out very much," says Mrs. Etherington. "She was always at home. I don't think she wanted to go away from the house."

She had an egg-warming dish in the kitchen, with four holders for the eggs, but she used it to keep her money in. The small household expenses were paid out of this dish.

They may have lacked for money, at times, but their home was a treasure house of good living, of warmth and comfort and books and music—she tried to teach each of the five boys the piano—and especially of a woman's loving care.

It is all there today. And so is she.

Trend In Imitation of Europe

It is not an altogether unexpected phenomenon that in both Germany and Italy, a reversion to fascism should be apparent. The alternatives are Communism or the American form of capitalism.

In the United States, during the past two decades, a deification of the word, democracy, has been sponsored by both government and many organs of the people. Unfortunately, the word itself has so many meanings as to be meaningless. Certainly, to one who is not an American, the glorification of the word seems peculiar and even queer, because there is no evidence that any aspect of political, social or economic democracy, in definable terms, is practiced here.

The method employed by Americans to select public officials is remote from democracy; we enjoy a representative, republican government, operating through two mechanistic political parties. While the people can and do select, for president or many offices, one of the two candidates offered by these parties, it is rare that anyone can be chosen independently of them. The choice of the people is funneled through the parties. There is no mob rule, no shouting of the demes.

Similarly, while capitalism is often referred to as free enterprise, its purpose is to produce goods and services but also to create reservoirs of privately owned capital by encouraging the accrual of private profit. The tendency of government to engage in competitive business with private individuals, either directly or indirectly by loans and subsidies, involves a movement away from the American economic system toward European social democracy. As this trend expands, particularly in the nature of controls, Europeans are imitating Europe and not vice versa.

Socially, the American people reject the European concept of democracy, which is equality. Racial discrimination is not the only social barrier in this country. As long as the fundamental American concept of equality of economic opportunity prevailed, no elite class was able to survive long in this country, although it always existed. The graduated income tax is stratifying American society, for only those who possess inherited wealth or are corrupt can acquire the means to move toward social equality. The rest pay taxes and grow constantly poorer through depreciated currency.

Also, the militarization of this country by siphoning youth off during the most important formative years, a system we have copied from continental Europe delays the opportunities of young people to establish themselves. To this delay must be added the dangerous increase of city population which tends to turn citizens into proletarians.

This the Europeans witness objectively. They are offered wonderful means to a non-existent democracy and are asked to imitate a system we do not use ourselves.

To Americans, our way is satisfactory with all its imperfections. In fact, most of us prefer the imperfections because they protect our liberties. As Estes Kefauver said in his book "A 20th Century Congress":

"Those multiple proposals rubber-stamped by a dazed Congress did not alter the fundamentals of the American government. Proof of this fact lies in the high percentage of those hastily enacted laws that passed the test of constitutionality before the Supreme Court. Unlike another strong, but in that case malevolent, leader in a nascent democracy beset by grave problems, our executive did not demand goosestepping, heels, and the abolition of the fuhrer principle. That is fortunate. The people might have been tempted to try such nostrums."

It is because we are loose in our definitions and not very effective in our government that we have not gone crazy over the counterparts of Hitler and Mussolini or Stalin. We take our great men in our stride and recognize that no one is so big that he does not look pot-bellied and bandy-legged in the secrecy of the bath. At such times we laugh and we vote for them.

The Europeans say we are immature. They want a political, economic and social system that is orderly. Our use of the word, democracy, only confuses them. It is a disorderly word, meaning anything that anyone wants it to mean. I have waited for several years, for instance, for some philosopher of the Americans for Democratic Action to supply a precise definition of their basic philosophy in universal terminology.

They have not been able to do anything like that. Nor has the Voice of America. Therefore, Europe goes its merry way toward "ordning," but now in the fascist form.

Diet and Health Antihistamine Misuse Could Be Dangerous

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

The public should be warned that antihistamine drugs can be dangerous, even deadly poisons, if misused or used to excess. And this mainly happens when people do not seek the advice of their doctors before using such drugs.

Antihistamines have become fairly popular lately in the relief of allergies, hay fever, hives, eczema, asthma, etc. Though much publicized for colds, they do not seem especially helpful against this common complaint.

Large Doses Dangerous

Some people, however, have been foolish enough to think a larger dose would help more than a small one, and they have been severely poisoned. Children, as well as adults, have also been poisoned by accidental overdoses.

A heavy dose of an antihistamine may create a condition of extreme excitement, and the person may have hallucinations—imagines he sees things not really there. He has difficulty in walking and co-ordinating his movements. His face usually becomes flushed, and he may run a fever.

These drugs are especially dangerous because they do not irritate the stomach or make a person nauseous, as do other drugs. Thus, he does not vomit them, and has no warning that he has taken a dangerous dose.

Coma, Then Death

As the poison affects the system, it brings on convulsions, twitching, and seizures. The person may then go into coma, and die within two to eighteen hours. There may be severe damage to lungs, liver and kidneys.

For safety's sake, it is best not to take antihistamines unless they are prescribed by a physician. The doctor will determine just how much his patient can take, and will change the dosage as soon as there are any signs of a bad reaction.

Out of Children's Reach

Parents are especially warned to keep these drugs away from the reach of children. If a child does take an overdose, his stomach should be emptied immediately. This calls for prompt action by parents and physician.

Once the drug has entered the system, the doctor may have to control its effects with heavy doses of sedatives and stimulants. It is certainly better to take an ounce of prevention around youngsters, and extra care should be taken by everyone using the drugs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. H.: I have a stomach ulcer that has not been cured under medical management. Do you think I should have surgery?

Answer: Most physicians, at the present time, are of the opinion that surgery is definitely indicated in cases of ulcers of the stomach that do not respond to medical treatment.

Snake Upsets Plan Of Demonstrator

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 19 — (AP) — Marlin Perkins, widely known director of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, was posing for TV cameramen Tuesday with a non-poisonous four-foot chicken snake. Suddenly the snake gave him a painful bite on the neck.

Perkins, invited here to suggest improvements for the Memphis Zoo, delayed treatment until after he addressed a civic club where he demonstrated the proper way to handle snakes.

Truce Deadlock Was Forecast

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, June 19 — A long deadlock and possible failure of the Korean peace talks, it is now known, was forecast by high-ranking army men, when President Truman and Secretary Acheson decided to bar the exchange of Koje prisoners who refuse to return to North Korea. With the Panmunjom conferences still fruitless after ten months of negotiations, they have proved correct.

The inside story of the Truman-Acheson decision reveals that it was an ideological rather than a military approach to the problem, as were so many ill-fated, Roosevelt-Churchill orders to field commanders in World War II. As Eisenhower and Bradley opposed Yalta-Potsdam agreements, so their successors are skeptical of today's interference by Washington.

GODSEND — The original surrender leaflets showered over enemy troops contained no guarantee of permanent refuge in our ranks. They simply promised humane treatment, an offer designed to offset Communist warnings that we mistreated and massacred all captives. To hungry, weary and demoralized troops, this prospect of succor from battle hardships and casualties was a godsend.

There was no ideological fine print in these tracts, as printed and distributed by military authorities on the scene. More than half of our 170,000 prisoners, it is figured, threw down their arms only for bread-and-butter, body, and soul reasons.

The Truman-Acheson afterthought was an attempt to make anti-Communist propaganda in the global "cold war." It was designed to convince the world that even ignorant and illiterate Korean peasants prefer a democratic to a communistic way of life.

OBJECTIONS — Military men, however, raise numerous practical objections to this innovation in surrender terms. For one thing, since only a handful of our people speak the various North Korean and Chinese dialects, all interrogation and screening of prisoners are done by native interpreters. We must rely on them for honest and intelligent execution of an extremely difficult psychological operation.

Secondly, the final test of the prisoners' attitude is whether they will "forcibly resist" repatriation. Having seen our easygoing treatment of the most unruly "commies" before the Koje mutiny forced us to become hard-boiled, it was not difficult for the interpreters to obtain an affirmative answer to this question.

SKIN-DEEP — Army experts also believe that many thousands of the captured accept our offer of refuge solely to escape further fighting, and to enjoy the relatively comfortable conditions in our compounds. They doubt whether these uneducated and untraveled boys from the most backward sections of barren Korea have been "converted to democracy."

In view of the dictatorial behavior of Syngman Rhee, the South Korean puppet president we have pampered, financed and kept in office for so many years, the depth of North Koreans' faith in western standards of anything is regarded as only skin-deep.

EXCHANGE — Despite the admittedly good intentions behind the Truman-Acheson experiment, it has several unfortunate aspects that only now are receiving consideration on Capitol Hill, largely because of growing complaints from folks back home, and from sharp critiques by international authorities.

While the peace talks founder on this issue, more than 70,000

American boys—the figure, though tentative, is approximately correct—languish in enemy prison camps. They may even suffer retaliation because of General Boardman's necessary but drastic action in smashing Koje felloes.

We have enough prisoners willing to return home, according to unpublished accounts, so that we can now effect a full exchange on a conventional and historical basis, thus releasing the Americans who otherwise face a killing summer heat under execrable conditions.

So, on Capitol Hill and at the Pentagon they ask: Why not make a man-to-man swap now, without injecting the ideological question into the truce talks?

DUD — The propaganda value of the Truman-Acheson position, if it is maintained, will have no lasting effect in a protracted "cold war." The Kremlin is, laughing at the threat, and using it to build up strength during the Panmunjom affair.

White House and State have secret reports that our noble attitude on this question has been given no publicity in communist, satellite and even in such neutral states as India, the Middle East and Africa. In those areas, where it was supposed to win us friends, it has been a dud.

DIFFICULTIES — From a broader standpoint, international legal experts say the Truman-Acheson idea may create many novel and troublesome difficulties, should there be a global war.

If persisted in, it may nullify and weaken the Geneva agreements for treatment and exchange of prisoners, as well as for the mitigation of war's horrors, that have been laboriously established since the first convention for discussion of these problems was held in 1864.

Why CONCRETE is nation's 1st choice for EXPRESSWAYS

Significantly, portland cement concrete is the overwhelming choice for America's rapidly-growing mileage of expressways because concrete is inherently safe. It is skid-resistant, wet or dry. Its natural light color increases visibility at night.

because concrete is economical. It usually costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity. It has long life, costs much less to maintain and cuts vehicle operating costs.

because concrete is satisfying to drive on. Its smooth riding, even surface improves car control, reduces nervous strain, expedites traffic flow.

It's your money that pays for pavements. Get the most for your money. Insist on highways built with concrete.

Woman Sunbather Upsets Sky Watch

CLEVELAND, June 19 — (P) — A woman sunbather has thrown a temporary hitch into plans for an around-the-clock skywatch here for enemy airplanes.

Mayor Amos I. Kaufman of suburban Lakewood said a look-out post on the roof of the Lake Shore hotel had to be abandoned. The woman, who was not named, objected and said the skywatchers were interfering with her tanning, he added.

In ancient Roman times women often appeared in the arena to fight as gladiators.

Officials of the Ohio Wildlife Division this week issued their annual request that young wild game be left in the fields and not adopted as "orphans."

Many baby raccoons, rabbits, deer and other wild animals find themselves taken from their natural surroundings in the fields and woods and probably by the good intentions of "foster-parents."

The legislation also would prevent the stations from charging candidates hiked-up rates.

It Was So Easy to Lose 30 Lbs. The Rennel Way

I Did It—So Can You—Rennel Is Wonderful

Mrs. Earl Blakley, 240 Wadsworth Ave., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, writes: "I have used Rennel and have found it to be an excellent product for taking off excess weight. I am 30 years old and weighed 160 lbs. Now I am down to 130 lbs. It was so easy to reduce the Rennel way."

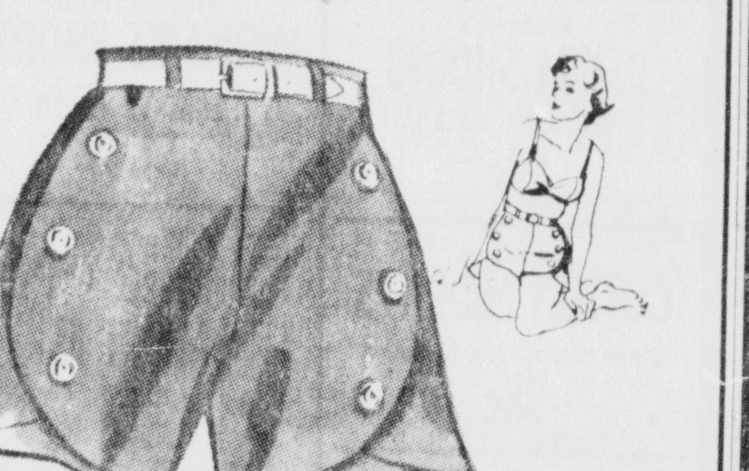

Imagine, eat plenty and lose weight with this simple yet effective amazing home recipe. After purchasing a bottle of Rennel from your druggist pour the contents into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle.

Take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Insist on and be sure to get genuine Rennel.

Radar Will Be Used By Patrol

Speeding drivers will have less chance of "talking back" about the rate of speed they were traveling when picked up by the state highway patrolmen.

Patrol cars throughout the state are now fitted with radar speed control for the first time.

The new device checks the exact speed of a car being clocked by a patrolman.

The Columbus police department has been using the device for several years, and has found it dependable.

A black box containing a transmitter-receiver and antenna, is mounted on a rack on top of car trunk. The box weighs 45 pounds is one foot square and eight inches deep.

The transmitter sends out a micro wave signal which is reflected back to the receiver by a moving car. As the car proceeds along the thoroughfare, the signal beams follow it. An electronic meter records the speed of the car. Its scale is marked every two miles to a maximum reading of 100 miles per hour. The meter actually records the reflected wave and translates it into the speed of the moving car.

Mrs. Norma Campbell Feted At Farewell Party Given By Home Demonstration Clubs

One-hundred fifty members of the combined Home Demonstration groups of Fayette County participated in a lovely event Wednesday evening when they entertained at a farewell party honoring Mrs. Norma Campbell, Fayette County home demonstration agent for the past few years, who leaves soon for Dayton to make her home.

The event was held in the Dayton Power and Light club room, and was arranged as surprise to Mrs. Campbell, who upon her arrival was presented with a beautiful orchid by past presidents, Mrs. Russell Pope, Mrs. John Sheeley and Mrs. Lewis Parrett.

Mrs. Campbell was also presented with a beautiful floor lamp from the combined groups and the Farm Bureau officials as a token of her splendid work and tireless efforts in the organizing of the many clubs in the county.

Punch and cookies were served from an artistically appointed tea table, centered with a lovely bouquet of pastel flowers arranged by Mrs. Ray Shoemaker, with Mrs. Ralph Pope, Miss Louise Ritter and Mrs. Willard Creamer as hostesses at the tea table.

Decorations in the spacious living room were carried in pink and green and festoons of crepe paper in the predominating shades were used on the mantel which formed a background for the gift table which was centered with a pink umbrella flanked with summer flowers in crystal vases.

A floral contest provided pleasant diversion for the guests and the award was presented to Mrs.

3 Of 150 Cars Which Sank In River Dec. 18 Pulled Out

GOLCONDA, Ill., June 19—(P)—A diver and a salvage expert—both blind—have managed to hoist three automobiles which sank with 147 others on a barge in the Ohio River during a storm last Dec. 18.

Diver Bert Cutting and salvage man Thomas Strickland Sr., went about their dangerous and difficult work as if they could see.

Thomas Strickland Jr., who is working with his father and Cutting to raise the sunken cars, said Cutting's blindness hampered him little if at all in the underwater work.

"You can't see down there, anyway," he said of the muddy depths.

Cutting has been blind 43 of his 53 years. He has been a diver 14 years and is a veteran river salvage worker.

Young Strickland said the Strickland Construction Co., hopes to make $700 to $800 apiece on the cars raised. He said the engines of the three autos hoisted Tuesday could easily be put in running order.

Potato Supply Is Like Yoyo; Plenty Now

By The Associated Press
The nation's big potato shortage is over. There are plenty of spuds in markets from coast to coast.

An Associated Press survey shows that at many places prices have dropped as much as one-third from the highs reached about two weeks ago after potato price ceilings were suspended.

Wholesale prices already are back at or near the old ceilings in New York, Chicago and several other cities.

There is some difference of opinion on prospects for future price cutting. While some dealers say prices now are at "a seasonally normal level" and generally stabilized, there are other reports that more reductions may be expected before the market levels off.

Faster Pace Urged For U.S. Air Power

WASHINGTON, June 19—(P)—The Senate preparedness subcommittee has called for a faster buildup of U. S. air power and cited testimony by the Joint Chiefs of Staff to support its stand.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), said everything must be done to step up rates of production in order to reach a goal of 143 wings as quickly as possible and overcome a "terrifying" Russian air superiority.

"To do otherwise would reduce our defenses below safe levels and be an invitation to disaster," the subcommittee said in a report dealing with the recent "stretch-out" decision by President Truman and his advisers.

Fewer Pass Test To Get Deferment

WASHINGTON, June 19—(P)—The selective service system reported 57 per cent of the 54,755 college students who took its last two college qualification tests made passing grades of 70 or better. The tests were the sixth and seventh given.

The percentage passing compares with 63 per cent of the 339,066 students who took the first four tests and 61 per cent who passed the fifth test, taken by 19,574 students.

The educational testing service, which gives the tests for selective service, attributed the lower percentage passing than more recent tests to the fact that most students taking them were freshmen and sophomores. The earlier tests reached more juniors and seniors.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—One of the never-ending wonders of Washington is the amount of virtue claimed by both sides in a controversy. The most recent example is the dispute over postmasters.

Under the present system postmasters of the first, second and third class are chosen by the President, provided the Senate approves. The Senate can kill his appointments. President Truman has asked Congress to change this.

He suggested that all postmasters be put under civil service in such a way that the President and the Senate would have nothing to say about appointments at all. He said the postmaster general, a member of his Cabinet, should make them.

The Senate rose in its wrath yesterday and said "No." So the system stays as it's always been. This power over the selection of postmasters, with all the political patronage involved, was too much for the senators to let go.

SEN. McCLELLAN, Arkansas Democrat, said the President's plan, although 93 per cent of all government workers are under civil service, would "destroy the democratic process that keeps the government close to the people."

This was really putting senatorial power and political patronage on a high plane. Senators favoring the plan went up to a pretty high plane, too. They said the plan would be the biggest advance civil service reform in 70 years.

Sen. Eastland, Mississippi Democrat, may have come closer to the reality when he said that even if the Senate approved "postmasters still will be politically selected... the only result will be to deprive the Senate of passing on them."

There's no law saying the postmaster can't consult with local politicians and with congressmen and senators on a candidate for postmaster. He could still do it, even if the Senate voted to cut itself and the President out of the picking.

The postmaster general alone now picks postmasters of the fourth class without the President or the Senate as a whole getting in on the act. So if the Senate approved the President's plan, the postmaster general could do with the first, second and third class postmasters what he's free to do with the fourth now.

Safety Parade For Bike Riders Here June 25

Nearly all bicycle riders in Washington C. H. are expected to participate on June 25th in a big parade to promote bicycle riding under the sponsorship of Montgomery Ward & Co., and the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce.

Prizes will be awarded for the best and most originally decorated bicycles. H. F. Schlu, store manager of Montgomery Ward, will provide a GE Sealed Beam Bike as 1st prize plus valuable merchandise prizes for the other parade winners. All prizes will soon be on display in the window of the Ward's store.

There will be no registration fee of any kind. A list of safety rules and contest rules will be given to each rider at the time of registration. Any bicycle rider, young or old, may enter this event by filling out an entry blank in the sporting goods department of Montgomery Ward & Company.

Three prominent local citizens will be chosen as judges for the contest. The parade is scheduled to start at Ward's store at 1700 A. M. on June 25 and will proceed from the store on Court St. to Main St. to Gardner Park where the judges will announce the winners and award prizes.

Poor Phone Blamed For Order Loss

COLUMBUS, June 19.—(P)—A Carrollton man complained he lost an order for 5,000 gallons of gasoline a day because of poor telephone service by the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. of Marion.

The complaint was forwarded to the state utilities commission by State Rep. Tom Richards of Carroll County.

Richards said the H. C. Price Co. of Auburn, N. Y., tried for two days last month to telephone Kenneth A. Widder, the Carrollton representative of the Standard Oil Co., to place an order. The company told Widder later the Carrollton telephone operator said Widder's number was either out of order, busy or did not answer for two days. Widder said his wife was at home the entire two days.

Retiring To Farm May Be A Dream Called Nightmare

Some city people who dream of retiring to a farm to spend their golden years in bucolic bliss may find their dreams shattered in actual practice, unless they are careful.

Stories of successful retirement to rural living by older people have been reported in glowing terms, says Dr. Walter C. McKain, professor of Rural Sociology at the University of Connecticut. However, the failures do not appear in print.

The truth of the matter, according to Dr. McKain in the July "Journal of Living," is that the simple country life has been replaced by the hustle and bustle of modern rural communities. City people and city ways have crept into even the most secluded places.

There is usually little need for a retired person on the mechanized, commercialized farms to today. Large outlays of capital are required to purchase even a small going farm. Part-time farming almost always requires financing with income received from other sources.

One fundamental cause of disillusionment with farm life for the city-bred person may be in the individual himself. He may be unwilling to make the adjustments demanded by age and retirement, and tries to escape to the country in an attempt to escape from himself.

To find out whether your dream of farm life could become a reality, experiment with rural living before making a definite change. Learn first-hand the advantages and disadvantages of country living by spending as much free time as possible on a farm. Make sure, too, that you'll be able to manage financially.

Ban On Fireworks

COLUMBUS, June 19.—(P)—Albert A. Woldman, state director of industrial relations, said the department's field inspectors will enforce Ohio's anti-fireworks law with or without the help of local authorities. Violation of the state law is a misdemeanor punishable by fines from $25 to $500.

He urged every bicycle rider in this city to participate in the interest of greater bike safety.

House Measure Scored For Discrimination

By GEORGE S. BENSON
An Associated Press dispatch in my newspaper reports that the House of Representatives has "voted tax relief to all members of Congress." As one of your constituents, I am perfectly willing to approve your action if you will vote exactly the same tax relief to all of us back home. Otherwise you and your colleagues in Congress are being unfair; you are setting yourselves up as a "vested interest," voting yourselves special tax exemptions not applicable to other citizens.

Such action is not only unfair; it is dangerous. It sets you apart from the people you represent. By escaping taxes that you have voted to levy on "we the people," you escape the financial problems that are a constantly expanding part of our lives as government grows bigger and bigger. You lose the common touch. You cease to be a true representative of the people. You shirk carrying your part, a citizen's part of the tax load. Thus, to you, taxes lose their true nature, their paralyzing effect, their inherent danger.

THE AP dispatch says that by an "unrecorded" vote the House has voted its members and the members of the Senate permission to deduct all "living expenses" incurred in Washington when you make out your income tax return. "Unrecorded" means that no Congressman stood up to be counted publicly for or against the "Tax-Relief-for - Congressmen - Only" measure—doesn't it?

Nearly all representatives and Senators live in Washington year-round, only periodically visiting the district which they represent. Therefore this special exemption you're voting yourselves means, in effect, that most of the expenditures in the Congressman's family budget can be deducted. In fact, the AP dispatch says that the Income Tax people in Washington interpret the term "living expenses" in the "Tax-Relief-for - Congressmen-Only" measure to mean food, housing, transportation and "other expenses." Therefore, Congressmen might not have to pay any income tax at all.

WE CITIZENS know what you're up against. It's tough trying to live in Washington on $15,000 a year, with taxes what they are and with inflation sapping the purchasing power of the dollar. But if you think living in Washington on $15,000 is tough, you ought to come home and find out what it's like here on $4,000, and $5,000 and $6,000—before taxes! The statisticians report that Federal taxes alone now are taking $477 on the average each year from every man, woman and child. For the family of four, it averages $1,908.

Another way to put it is that total government taxes now use up 32 per cent of the total annual income of all the people and all the companies in America! And still another way to state it is that taxes now claim a amount equal to the total income of all the people and companies west of the Mississippi River. If you think this isn't hurting us, in spite of the allegedly painless tax extraction methods of payroll deduction and indirect taxation on consumer goods, you need to come home and look the taxpayers squarely in the pocketbook and bank account.

YES, MR. CONGRESSMAN, it is high time to do something about tax relief. But with your "Tax-Relief-for-Congressmen - Only" measure you're not shooting square. Nor are you facing up honorably to a bad situation. Your trouble is that Federal taxes are too heavy. You're admitting that. You're fixing things so these crippling taxes won't cripple you.

But we citizens are in trouble too. What about us?
This letter is being mailed to my Senators too. They are hereby asked to reject the "Tax-Relief-for-Congressmen - Only" proposition. Together the House and the Senate can cut your taxes and ours too by drastically cutting down the size of the Federal government and by exposing and kicking out the grafters and the big spenders. All the people I know will back you to the hilt in this.

P. S. The time has come for sincere, honest Americans to stand up and be counted on all votes. I am writing out of deep concern for my country's future.

Ohio's Governor Has No Favorites

CLEVELAND, June 19.—(P)—More than 300 Ohio politicians and businessmen are on a four-day Great Lakes cruise aboard the S. S. South American.
The trip is sponsored by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.
Gov. Frank J. Lausche turned down an invitation to take the trip, saying:
"How many of these people would be making the trip if the CIO or the Federation of Labor were sponsoring it under identical conditions?"

Wilmington Dynamiter Held Insane

CINCINNATI, June 19.—(P)—Herbert F. Kinner, 42, of Wilmington, charged with the dynamiting of the Voice of America Radio tower at Bethany in October, 1950, Tuesday was committed to the Dayton State Hospital.

Probate Judge Chase M. Davies issued the order on the basis of medical and psychiatric findings. Kinner has been held in the Lima State Hospital for criminal insane since last month.

The commitment takes precedence over a federal indictment charging Kinner with destruction of federal property.

KINNER was held in the medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo., from Feb. 14, 1951, until last May 7. A federal judge there ordered his release, however, on a writ of habeas corpus and he was returned here for proceedings in probate court. The case was to have been heard in Clinton County but the probate judge there asked Judge Davies to assume jurisdiction.

Investigation of the blast at the radio tower showed Kinner obtained 80 pounds of dynamite at Yellow Springs. At the time of his arrest he told authorities the Voice of America had been sending messages to him accusing him of crimes and calling him bad names.

Democrats' Purse Fatter Than GOP's

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—The Democratic National Committee headed into the election-year home stretch with a slightly fatter pocketbook than did the Republican National Committee.

Reports filed with the clerk of the House showed the Democrats with a balance of $267,391 on June 1 and the Republicans with $228,790.

Potatoes and Politicians

By Wilford I. King

Anyone seeking a typical illustration of how politicians blunder when they begin interfering in the domain of business, needs only to turn to the case of the lowly potato.

Some of us ancients can remember a dim and dusty past when potato growers, potato dealers, and potato eaters all managed to get along without aid of regulators. In those days, if drought came along, potatoes went up in price, and the high price led thrifty people to eat fewer potatoes and more of other foods. On the other hand, when weather conditions happened to be especially favorable, and, as a result, potatoes were unusually abundant, their prices fell until they were the cheapest food on the market, and hence their consumption increased.

Since low prices went with large yields and high prices accompanied poor crops, the potato farmers' incomes did not, as a rule, vary extremely. True, occasionally, in certain areas, the potato prices might fall to levels too low to justify marketing the crop. In such instances, the surplus potatoes were fed to the cows or pigs. This increased the farmers' income from dairy products or pork, and also made it possible for urban consumers to enjoy a more abundant supply of these nourishing foods. This was the way things worked out in the days of laissez faire and the free market.

But then came the GREAT AWAKENING when almost everyone suddenly realized that competition was merely a relic of the dark ages, and that it inevitably resulted in tremendous unnecessary waste. So, the valiant New Deal politicians set to work to establish a NEW ORDER exemplifying efficiency and economy. Naturally, they turned the control of the potato industry over to the bureaucrats. And what happened then?

Since the bureaucrats were mostly politicians who fully understood the desirability of building up dependable groups who would vote right, they felt it highly necessary to have Uncle Sam agree to buy at prices well above those which would be set by competition in a free market, any unsold potatoes. So it was arranged to have the government do this.

With fancy prices guaranteed, the potato growers turned out record-sized crops. Uncle Sam poured out hundreds of millions of dollars to buy the surplus. Much additional money was spent for gasoline and dye to spoil these surplus potatoes and prevent their use.

When the wave of protests concerning this wanton waste finally grew too high to be longer ignored some brilliant bureaucrat ordered thousands of tons of the Government-owned potatoes shipped from the Dakotas to Texas, and had them there loaded on a vessel to be taken to Europe to feed our hungry proteges over there. However, with usual bureaucratic acumen, this bright idea was not translated into action until May, when, as every housewife knows, old potatoes are on the verge of dissolution. So, by the time the potatoes reached New York on the way to Europe, they were rotten, and hence it was necessary to dump them into the ocean.

When the next huge crop came along, some bureaucrat concluded that the correct way to deal with the surplus potatoes was to dry them, and sell them abroad. The fact that it costs as much to dry the potatoes as the dried products would bring in the foreign markets was, of course, a matter of no consequence.

Finally, the Government decided to sell for feed at a cent a bushel potatoes which had cost it a hundred times as much. Who paid the bill? The taxpayers, of course! But is not their chief mission in life the support of the politicians and bureaucrats?

Incidentally, it is well to remember that, all the time, the urban consumers were not only paying taxes to cover the cost of the wasted potatoes, but were also being forced to pay exorbitant prices for the potatoes they ate.

Now we come to the latest scene in the potato politician pageant. After the wartime inflationary wave had subsided, the Washington regulators decided that maybe inflation was really a grave threat to our Nation's welfare. So President Truman asked Congress to permit him once more to let loose upon the hapless public a plague of price controllers. These new office holders felt it essential to control, among other things, the price of potatoes. The price which they set was low enough to prevent many growers from planting—result, a short crop. In free market, this would have meant high prices, and the potatoes would have gone to those who valued them most.

But not so with the politicians in charge. They kept down the prices until the supply was practically gone, and our nation is now experiencing a potato shortage probably unparalleled in its history.

Perhaps these gentlemen are not as ignorant as their pronouncements indicate. Controls give power and politicians love power. Furthermore, controls require many well-paid controllers and politicians have many political debts to meet.

Now, we have the spectacle of millions of bushels of potatoes from the United States creating abundance in Canada, because Canadians were permitted to buy at a higher price, while OPS prevented their sale in the United States.

Movie Revival Is Being Sought On New Angle

Censorship Is Key
To Proposal Made
By Director Koster

By ARMAND ARCHERD
HOLLYWOOD—A solution for saving sagging box office figures has been found—maybe. The idea is offered by top director Henry Koster and his brain child is now being passed about the industry for eventual action. It is movie censorship.

The type of censorship suggested would limit the showing of certain films to adult audiences only. In other words, photographic film censorship would be lifted to allow the production of films for adult reception solely.

The burden would then fall on theater owners to police their establishments so minors could not purchase tickets to see such films. "I don't mean," Koster clarified his idea, "these films should be strictly sexy, racy, or whatever you might call it, but just films which deal with adult subjects in an adult way."

"Take crime pictures, for example. Today's movie censorship prohibits our showing successful crime. The 'bad' guy always gets killed in the last reel. That's OK grown up and be successful criminals. However, you and I and any adult knows there is plenty of successful crime going on."

HE SUGGESTS this as one type of film which should have the seal "A" on it, and a similar sign posted at the box office of theaters showing it.

A tremendous new field of subjects could then be filmed. Powerful dramas, now limited to stage and the written word, he argues, could finally come to the screen.

In addition, top-notch authors who will not or cannot alter their writing to conform with present censorship can be made available to contribute their talents to a medium of entertainment they have long considered childplay.

At present, European films hold a monopoly on showing films whose theme is considered unsuitable for general American consumption. Many, of course, are in extreme bad taste. This is not the aim of Koster's censorship plan.

A new board of censors would have to be created to pass on this new group of films. The board should contain: teachers, parents, criminologists, psychologists, medical doctors and film executives. It would be for them to decide which films must have an "A" rating.

Another tough job would be the interpretation of what is an adult—a 16, 18, 20 or 12 year-old—or, perhaps they would divide the film audience into three categories: adults, adolescents and children. Whatever the decisions, Koster is sure it would help filmmakers and distributors.

"ONE RULE," he says, "would be no film given an 'A' rating could ever be shown on TV. It is impossible to have censorship in the home. I know it's impossible for me to be around the set in my house at all times to be sure the kids aren't watching something unsuitable."

The industry would continue making musicals, comedies, westerns, biographies such as Koster's present film version of John Philip Sousa's career, Stars and Stripes Forever, for general consumption. However, an entirely new market would be open with the advent of more mature, yet morally acceptable movie matter.

"YOU know as well as I," he smiled, "if there is a five-year-old movie on TV and if the local theater is showing a film with, say Betty Grable and Tyrone Power, whose subject is strictly adult and whose audience must be limited to adults, and, if you know this film will never be permitted on television, well you know you are going to get out of your house and see it."

Koster is now talking to studio bosses and the Screen Directors Guild to further action on the idea. Frankly, I must admit it will be through.

However, the fact thousands of theaters have closed in the past few years may induce these men to try it.

One thing is certain: by the time Hollywood decides one way or the other, a year or more will pass. By that time the studios themselves may be up to their necks in television film production. Today's sagging box office may then need a lift because the dough will be rolling in over the air waves.

Tank Of Fuel Oil Poured In Cellar

BALTIMORE, June 19.—(P)—A knotty-pine club cellar is no place to deliver a tank full of oil, the Murray P. Smiths complained in a $15,000 suit against the Esso Standard Oil Co.

They alleged in their suit that last December a Standard Oil man drew up to their home, hooked up his hose to a fuel pipe outside the house and pumped away—without any warning.

The fuel line had been disconnected inside the house, the Smiths explained.

And furthermore—they hadn't even ordered any oil.

A SURPRISE STRIKE of 300 Long Island railroad engineers and firemen halts all service on the nation's biggest commuter line and cuts off rail transportation for 300,000 commuters. One of those left stranded was Cpl. Peter Sabat of Mattituck, L. I., reading the strike notice in the Jamaica station. He had a three-day pass but no other way to get home.

(International Soundphoto)

IT WASN'T UNTIL Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph photographer Ed Romano looked in the hammock in his own back yard that he found a clue to end the turmoil in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeanne La Place in Bethel, Pa., near Pittsburgh, who had sounded an alarm among neighbors—including Romano—over their missing children, Jeanne, Jr., 3, and Lucy, 2, along with the La Place dog. There the little tykes were, snoozing peacefully in the outdoors cool. Romano made this photo, then woke them up and sent them home and spent the rest of the night in the hammock himself.

Experimental Models of Cars Give Preview of Coming Styles

MOTOR CAR OF TOMORROW?—This experimental car, called LeSabre, is designed to test various new ideas. Included in the innovations is an automatic jack operated from the dashboard in case of a flat tire.

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
(Central Press Correspondent)
DETROIT, Mich.—Automobiles that Americans will be driving during the next 10 years are not likely to be radically different from those which crowd the highways during the current tourist season.

However, there definitely will be big changes. Secreted in shops around this motor capital are the experimental models which determine tomorrow's styles. Occasionally, one of them spins out on the streets and gives passersby a thrill like that which swept through the town when Henry Ford's Model A, successor to the classic Model T, appeared.

Now it may be General Motors' Le Sabre, the jet-lined sport roadster which may contain many of the earmarks of GM's line for the next decade, or the futuristic cars that Chrysler, Lincoln, Packard, Buick and some of the others have been coyly unveiling now and then.

A GLANCE into the carefully guarded shops of the Wettlaufer Manufacturing Company here is a look into tomorrow. This fabulous and little-known concern for many years has specialized in design and experimental work for many of the big manufacturers.

Since early in the century when the first general auto patents were broken, development of the American auto has been a helter-skelter scramble. Each car maker is an unabashed copycat of the others, yet the great premium is on originality.

Consequently no single automobile can claim to be the typical United States motorcar style. Although the hunt for the $1,000 small car goes on fruitlessly, the range of cars is from the smallest—made by Crosley, Kaiser, Willys, and Nash—to the high-powered big cars which get speedier and more powerful all the time.

The prospect is that Mr. John Q. Motorist is going to have plenty of opportunity to continue to express his own personality in the car he drives, whether it calls for an accented compactness and economy or he likes to envisage himself in the jet-propelled age with a powerhouse throatily responding to his accelerator.

Never has the tug-of-war for design been stronger. The safety-conscious argue that the designs give too little attention to that facet of driving, considering that more than a million people have died in accidents.

THEY point out that insurance claims are up 30 percent because of the fancy fenders in body designs, elaborate radiator "jewelry," elimination of running boards and myriad chrome gadgets.

The economy-minded bemoan the rise in average price from $778 in 1940 to today's $1,835. The comfort-seekers complain that headroom has been mercilessly sacrificed in favor of the continual urge to get lower, lower and lower!

A peek at plans for the future assures that the width of selection will continue to be so great that almost every type of motorist will be able to find his own particular kind of car. The paradox of the greatest mass-produced product being that it also is one of the most individually styled.

However, the development of the American motorcar along the lines it has followed from the very beginning — toward constantly greater speed, sleeker lines and tremendous power—will continue apace. United States designers will keep an eye on European styles—particularly the work of the Italians—but will aim constantly for that elusive goal of ultimate speed and power. "Standard size" will continue to call for a big car.

Chief concessions to safety and comfort will be in designs for better brakes, easier steering, improved roadability, and enhanced visibility.

A TRANSITION to higher-powered fuels, including alcohol in the latest models, will continue the evolution from the steam and electric autos up to 1910 to the internal combustion engines using highly volatile fuels.

Projected superhighways encourage the designers to drop their conservatism of a decade ago, and to aim again for the 100 mph sustained speed.

Despite all these changes in prospect, however, that car of five to 10 years hence will be easily recognized as the direct descendant of the old buggy that is tuned up for today's vacation trip—it'll be heir to all its essential earmarks.

India's ancient Code of Manu forbade use of barbed or poison arrows or killing a foe who had thrown down his arms.

BOLD PLAID DENIM—In black and white creates this sleeveless coat dress by Junior Sophisticates for summer, 1952. Small wing collar is wired to curve upward and out. Deep pockets are concealed in the side seams of the full skirt. At the waistline, a patent belt and a bunch of Chinese red flowers.

High School To College Plans For Careers

Suggestions Are Advanced To Many Ambitious Youths

The term "professional" has many meanings and can be applied to workers having a wide range of skills and training in a variety of occupational fields. Yet, when we think of "professions," we think primarily of the doctor, dentist, lawyer and college professor—the big four among professional men.

As guardians of our physical health, personal rights and intellectual well being, these men must not only meet high educational standards but must prove themselves intelligent, competent practitioners in their respective fields.

PREPARATION for these fields falls neatly into two categories: pre-professional training and graduate study. Undergraduate work consists of the regular four-year course in an accredited college of arts and sciences, with a major in pre-medicine, pre-dentistry, pre-law or a chosen academic field in preparation for teaching.

This training is based on the philosophy that professional men will assume important roles as leaders of their community and must be understanding, articulate and well-integrated if they are to meet this obligation.

But professional people must also be trained and well informed on the rapid developments in their respective fields. After receiving his bachelor's degree, the student enters a graduate school for intensified, specialized training in medicine, dentistry, law, or teaching and research areas.

It is highly important that the student select a college for pre-professional training which meets the strict requirements of the graduate school he plans to attend. To do this, he must establish long-range plans, making full use of all available testing and guidance facilities to determine his aptitude and abilities.

AS REWARD for the long difficult training period, the professional man receives several important compensations. He is a respected member of the community and occupies a responsible position in a vital field, he has the satisfaction of being more or less his own boss without strict supervision or competition, he enjoys adequate income and associates with interesting people, and he has the supreme satisfaction of working with human beings and helping them in their troubles.

The Future
It is difficult to make a generalization about the four professions. The fields of medicine and dentistry offer excellent opportunities for qualified young people, with nursing, in particular, a wide-open field. There is some overcrowding in the law and college teaching professions at the present time, with general improvement foreseen in the latter as the effects of high birth rate are felt in colleges.

In general, we can say that there will never be enough top-notch professional people, and that with proper intelligence, aptitude, train-

Judge Crowley examines pistol. Mrs. De Rose screams in court.

APPEARING AS a prosecution witness in a Chicago court, Mrs. Camille de Rose carries a gun in her purse and ends up with a two-year jail term. She is the former owner of the Cicero, Ill., apartment building which was the scene of violent rioting a year ago when a Negro family moved into one of the apartments. Judge Wilbert F. Crowley sentenced her after she screamed, "Give me life. I won't shut up until I get life." Judge ordered that she be examined by a psychiatrist. (International)

U. S. Cracks Down on Spies By Giving Out Death Penalty

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
(Central Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Is Uncle Sam ready to be really tough on spies, as the upshot of the exposes of recent years?

Seasoned observers of diplomacy here think that he is, and point to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted of giving atomic secrets to the Russians, moving a long stride closer to an unprecedented peace-time execution for espionage, and the demand of a congressional committee that the death penalty be meted out to all spies who are caught.

Such a policy, which may seem only logical to Americans outraged by repeated disclosures of top secrets, is expected by international law experts to have repercussions around the globe.

They say that espionage probably has been practiced to a far greater extent by virtually all governments than was realized generally. Spies always have been fair game to be caught, of course, but an unwritten code among nations decreed that they should be treated with discretion if war was not actually being waged.

Typifying the new attitude, however, is the blunt declaration by New York's Judge Irving Kaufman, made in passing sentence of the supreme penalty upon the Rosenbergs, that:

"Your crime is worse than murder. Plain deliberate contemplated murder is dwarfed in magnitude by comparison. Indeed, by your betrayal, you undoubtedly have altered the course of history..."

CONSEQUENTLY, espionage, once a kind of romantic international sport featuring glamor girls like the fabulous Mata Hari of World War I and assorted cloak and dagger boys, and later a sordid business in the buying and selling of state secrets, seems to be taking its place alongside the most heinous crimes.

If the Nuernberg trials after World War II forged a new international crime of making aggressive war, the legal soothsayers speculate that a World War III could bring the final outlawing of espionage. Even without war, a new era of fair exchange of information and freedom of the press may crack down as the result of the crackdown on spies.

It is pointed out that many nations are reflecting the trend, Greece having just sentenced eight Red spies to death. From Europe come reports that spying, once as popular a way of making illicit money as operating the black market, has become so unhealthy that for the first time it is difficult to hire agents.

The Rosenbergs, languishing in Sing Sing prison, now have only the United States Supreme Court or a possible commutation of sentence by President Truman to save them from the electric chair. Both seem rather remote.

If they die for their crime, it will set an all-time precedent in American history, according to history professor Allan Nevins of Columbia University, who has searched in vain for a parallel from the past.

NO DEATH sentence has been imposed heretofore either in war or peace under the present Espionage Act, enacted in 1917. The nearest exception was the six Nazis executed in 1942 after being trapped on the landing beaches. But that was in wartime and before a military court.

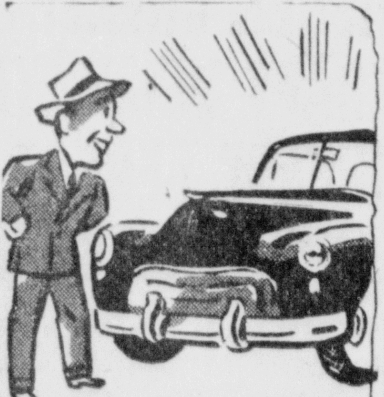

By 1945, peace had returned and President Truman harkened to past practice by commuting to life imprisonment the death sentence of another Nazi spy, William C. Colepaugh, 26, of Niantic, Conn. That was before the present wave of revelations and the hue and cry against spies.

How does it feel to be branded "worse than a murderer" and left in virtually complete silence to ponder the crime while awaiting execution? In a petition asking release from the death house, "as a living hell," Ethel Rosenberg tells:

"I am sealed in the gray walls of this prison as if in a tomb. I am alone in an entire building except for the matron who guards me. I see no other human being from morning to night and from night to morning. I have no occupation other than to sit immured in the aching soundlessness of my narrow cell," she laments.

"I have no recreation other than to walk on a bare patch of ground surrounded by walls so high that my only view is a bare patch of sky. Sometimes I can see an airplane passing by; sometimes a few birds; sometimes I hear the noise of a train in the distance. Otherwise, there is always dead silence."

However, Judge Jerome Frank of the United States Court of Appeals, reviewing Judge Kaufman's assessment of the supreme penalty, added: "We think the judge stayed well inside the discretion allowed him." Yes, say observers, Uncle Sam must be getting tough on spies at last!

Gophers Given Poison Gases

Pests Killed
Without Traps

By RICHARD H. SYRING
BOISE, Idaho—It's getting closer to that time of the year when you can expect a gopher mound to be forced up in your lawn or garden.

If you think you've got troubles, consider the plight of William Adam Batzner, 56, until he did something about it. Batzner, you see, is the United States Bureau of Reclamation's official gopher-killer on the 53,000-acre Black Canyon unit of the Boise irrigation project near here.

"I hate gophers!" he says unashamedly, "because they do so much damage."

Batzner's battleground of 53,000 acres was no exception. It is plagued, as are most irrigation projects, by thousands of gophers. They burrow through canal banks and would, if allowed to dig away unmolested, cause costly and perhaps disastrous canal breaks. A gopher may dig as much as a mile of tunnel in a year.

UNTIL a few months ago, Batzner used 60 or more traps. An expert at the business, he killed as many as 1,330 of the rodents during one 90-day period. However, the process of covering the 500 miles of canals on the division was burdensome, time-consuming and costly.

So the grizzled rodent-control man got to thinking of a faster, cheaper and cleaner method. He devised a new method which employs calcium cyanide powder. These fine particles are blown, under compressed air, into the network of gopher runs, where upon exposure to the moisture in the tunnels, they release hydrocyanic acid, which kills the pests instantly.

The compressed air blows the killing fumes through the runs as fast as 150 feet in 1½ minutes.

In one demonstration, gas was inserted in one gopher hill and in 20 seconds it came out another hill, opened up for the demonstration, some 60 feet away.

BATZNER'S lethal powder blowing machine is a rather simple contraption. He pressed into service an idle compressor which had been used to pump up automobile tires. He fastened about 50 feet of quarter-inch rubber hose to the compressor and at the end of the hose attached an improvised metal chamber to hold the cyanide powder and stir it up through the application of air.

Until Batzner perfected the compressed air device, cyanide gas had been inserted into the runways by means of a hand pump.

"This system was only partially successful," he recalls. "The gopher felt the change in pressure of the air each time the pump stem came down and hurriedly threw up an earth bulkhead to protect himself from whatever he felt was coming after him."

In the far west, where millions of acres are included in irrigation projects, the Reclamation Bureau

O'Neill Ruling Help To Cities

COLUMBUS, June 19—Attorney Gen. C. William O'Neill today ruled revenues from municipally owned utilities may be used to pay "a reasonable portion" of the expenses of any municipal department contributing to the operation of the utility.

O'Neill said the ruling upsets opinions of former attorneys general for the last 15 years. He pointed out the home-rule provision of Ohio's constitution gives municipalities the right to acquire, construct and operate any utility for their benefit.

He quoted an Ohio Supreme Court decision which said the legislature is without power to impose restrictions and limitations upon that right.

The ruling went to the state bureau of inspection and supervision of Public Offices.

plans to extend Batzner's method. It'll kill more gophers and save more money.

Marty Marion Puts Spark In St. Louis Browns

Reds Win Twin Bill
From Braves While
Indians Lose Again

By The Associated Press
If Marty Marion is handling his St. Louis Browns with kid gloves, it seems to be the right system.

Since Marion took over as Rogers Hornsby's successor, the Browns have won five of eight, including their last four in a row. Only eight games off the pace in the muddled American League race, they still can raise hob with the leaders.

Marion's secret weapon appears to be shortstop Marty Marion. With Marion playing shortstop—not just appearing as a pinch runner or a part-time player—the Browns' record is 21-18. Without Marty, it's 6-13.

The old master came through Wednesday night with one of his special—a dropping single that barely dropped safely along the right field line. Marion's hit followed Dick Kryhoski's leadoff double in the last of the ninth to give St. Louis a 4-3 win over Boston.

IN ADDITION to knocking home the winning run, Marion chipped in on two of three St. Louis double plays that helped Duane Pillette get home with his sixth win. Pillette scattered 11 hits while the Browns made nine off rookie Bill Henry add up to victory.

Up front in the league, the New York Yankees widened their lead to 2½ games over the Red Sox by turning on the home run power at Detroit in a 10-6 crusher. Gene Woodling, Billy Martin and Yogi Berra blasted Art Houtteman, the ex-soldier, for his eighth straight knockout.

Washington showed slumping Cleveland down a peg to fourth place, behind idle Chicago, with a 3-2 decision for Spec Shea, his first win since May 16 and a six-hitter at that.

Brooklyn and New York continued to pull away from the field in the National as the Dodgers nipped Chicago, 6-5, scoring the winning run in the 10th without a hit, and the Giants thumped Pittsburgh, 5-2, with Bobby Thomson rapping four hits, including two homers.

Solly Hemus and Stan Musial teamed up on the offense while Joe Presko set down the Phillies with five hits for a 7-1 St. Louis Card victory that pulled them up even with the .500 mark.

Cincinnati knocked off the Boston Braves in both ends of a twin-night doubleheader, 7-6, and 3-1. In the second game, Kenny Rafterberger overcame 11-strikeout pitching by Warren Spahn to cop his eighth.

Philadelphia and Chicago were idle in the American League.

Ohio High School Cage Stars Picked To Meet Kentucky Team

MIDDLETOWN, June 19 — (AP)—Ohio High school basketball coaches have picked the boys they think are the state's greatest players to meet Kentucky's All-Star high schoolers in the approaching annual series.

The Ohio team consists of 15 choice cagers. Three of them were named to the All-Ohio team by The Associated Press last season while eight others placed at least on the AP honorable mention list. Two of the top-notchers, Dick Vice and Don Barnett, played on the Middletown High School team that won the Class A state championship.

Vice and Barnett should be right at home on the All-Star crew. Their coach will be Middletown's Paul Walker. Coach Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky coaches the Bluegrass contingent.

Walker personally selected the brightest lights of high school basketball. This year's team places more emphasis on Southern Ohio, although coaches from throughout Ohio sent in recommendations.

THE Ohio aggregation includes players who previously were named to the AP's All-State team were Don Nuxhall of Hamilton Public, and Bob Jacoby of class B Blanchester.

The first tilt between the Ohio and Kentucky teams will take place at Bowling Green, Ky., June 26, with the second game at Middletown, June 28.

Before the series starts, the Ohio All-Stars will play next Tuesday night at Xenia against a star-sprinkled Class B aggregation.

The All-Star team consists of Freeman; Nuxhall; Jacoby; Vice; Barnett; Phil Lillard, Hamilton; Dave Plunkett, Cincinnati Withrow; twins Bill and Charley Fix, West Milton; Bill Kennon, Springfield Public; Nick Nicholas, Dayton Roosevelt; Jack Hollon, Franklin; Ray Back, Lebanon; Don Trumbull, Grand Rapids; and Bill Sharritts, Miamisburg.

Making up the rest of the "B" squad are: Jerry Nysewander, Blanchester; Bob Gardner, Monroe Township, Preble County; John Knight, Urbana Local; Lloyd Jacoby, Wayne Township, Clinton County; Paul Knoop, Randolph Township, Montgomery County; Carlton Bolds, Lockland Wayne, last season's Class B champs; Bob Kelly, Cardington; Bill Coder, Marysville; and Nick Ungard, Xenia East.

Decision Won Over Bratton By Castellani

CHICAGO, June 19 — (AP)—After picking up a check for $3,591.55, which will hardly cover expenses, for defeating Johnny Bratton Wednesday night, rugged Rocky Castellani beat his chest for bigger game and bigger money.

Castellani, a free-swinging middleweight who left the Luzerne, Pa., coal fields to seek championship pugilistic fortunes, now is yelling for a fight with Rocky Graziano.

"That one will draw the money," said business-like Castellani after taking a 10-round split decision. Castellani outweighted Bratton 156 pounds to 149 and defeated him for the second time in three months.

"I thought I won," said Bratton. "He can't punch, but he's big and strong. If we both weighed the same, I would take him inside four rounds."

Chief Claire Wins Big Stake

Roosevelt Winner Of Interest Here

Chief Claire won the two-year-old division of the Village Farm Stake at Roosevelt Raceway, New York, Tuesday night, purse $12,230.

The victory in the big stake was of interest in Fayette County, as Chief Claire was purchased from the consignment of McKinley Kirk at the Delaware Yearling Sale last fall for $1,500 by the very successful young driver, Stanley Dancer of New Jersey, who has had great success with Musician 2:04 1-5, from the same dam, Claire Abbe 2:21, by Bert Abbe 1:59 ¼, which by the way, went her first race at the Fayette County Fair some years back.

Chief Claire was bred by Fairmeade Farms, Wilmington, and was sold with the farm's entire weanling crop when Kirk & Cobb bought the farm, which they later resold to the owner for many years, W. J. Galvin.

The colt was sired by the former world's champion three-year old, Chief Counsel 3, 1:57 ¾, which also sired South Pacific 3, 2:07 1-5, winner of the $15,000 Abbedale stake for three-year-olds last week.

Belle Prone, owned by the Belle Aire Farms of Washington C. H., and driven by Jack Casey, was the winner of a $2,500 trot at Roosevelt Raceway Monday night in 2:10. The favorite at the windows, Belle Prone paid $3.20, 2.70 and 2.30.

Top Teams Tangle In Softball Tonight

The Hamilton Champion Paper Co. is making another appearance here for a doubleheader at Wilson's Field Thursday night (tonight) with Don Wood in the opener and the Rocking Chair Inn in the nightcap.

Hamilton was runner up in the state tournament last year and the year before they took the crown in the tournament.

In the opener, which starts at 7:30, Don Wood will probably start Don Reid on the mound against either Fannin or Turner for the Hamiltonians.

Peppers, the ace pitchers for Rocking Chair Inn, will probably do the twirling in the nightcap against either Fannin or Turner.

Friday night's schedule has been changed. Jeffersonville and Armo will tangle in the opener. The game is a postponed one from Thursday night.

The feature game will post Williamsport against Greenfield Local 307. The Local 307 is leading the league in Greenfield and the game should be a nip and tuck battle.

Ladies' Day Golfers Compete for Prizes

The ranks of women golfers at the Country Club were split Wednesday between those who went to Chillicothe for a ladies invitational tournament and those who took part in the regular ladies' day events here.

As usual, Pro Tony Capuana had an array of contests and "daffy" events going for the thirteen ladies who turned out on the links.

The winners and their prizes were as follows:

Mrs. Mildred Wead, blind bogey prize; Mrs. James Rose, most honest golfer prize; Mrs. Dwight Coffman, most improved golfer over last week; Mrs. Nancy Shaw, most improved putter over last week; Mrs. John Petty, high putter; Mary Haines, most even number holes; Miss Jean Willis, most odd number holes.

Big Name Pros Just Make It In PGA Tourney

'Unknown' Detroit
Paces Field With
6-Under-Par Score

LOUISVILLE, June 19 — (AP)—They've played the PGA champion ship on all kinds of courses since its inception in 1916 and they don't toughen them up with extra traps, jungles of rough or superslick greens as they do for the Open.

The result is the kind of scoring that took place over Louisville's Big Spring course Wednesday when they turned loose 137 of golf's best professional shot-makers to try for the 63 places in the match play brackets.

One of the "unknowns," tall lean Bob Gajda, went out early in the day and posted a 6-under-par of 66. The rest threatened that score and the course record all day but couldn't beat either.

There were three 67s, five 68s and three 69s and going into today's second 18-hole qualifying round it looked as if the ones who couldn't match par for 36 holes wouldn't get into the first of tomorrow's "sudden death" matches.

THE ARROW indicating the 64th man on the scoreboard pointed at the middle of the 73s at the end of the first day.

Among those who looked as if they might not make it were Ed (Porky) Oliver, runnerup to Julius Boros for the Open title last week; Denny Shute, the last player to win two PGA titles in succession 15 years ago; and Charlie Bassler, a giant-killing semi-finalist in last year's tourney. They all had 75s. Former Open Champion Lew Worsham and Buck White shot 76s and Skip Alexander a 79.

Behind Gajda, a 35-year-old assistant pro at Detroit's Oakland Hills Club, came two tournament stars, Cary Middlecoff and Dutch Harrison, and stay-at-home Henry Williams Jr., who went to the PGA final two years ago. They had the 67s.

Adequate

Termite Control

Halfway control measures are little better than none. Adequate Termite control must be based on a thorough knowledge of Termite habits and a mature experience in the application of approved laboratory and field techniques. Curbstone and shadetree operators with a little ill-smelling and ineffective dope applied here and there are not going to prevent Termites from attacking your woodwork, nor rid your premises of any present infestation. On the other hand, the timely advice and services of a reliable, professional operator, expert in identification, location and treatment of Termites, can prove to be the cheapest damage insurance you ever bought.

Costume Parade Replaces Nudity

Show Of Gay Paree Is Revolutionized

By CHARLES C. LANE
PARIS—The Folies Bergeres, known for a generation as Gay Paree's sprightly show of feminine nudity, has put on clothes—lots of them.

In the current three-hour program, called "A Real Folly," the girls with uncovered bosoms are on the stage only about 15 minutes.

Most of the program is about as daring as an old time chautauqua show. It is composed of parades of costumes varying from frilly 18th century French court styles to present day fashions at Long-champs race track.

A soprano in evening gown is lowered in a bird cage from the ceiling of the dingy gold-painted auditorium. Costumed girls are lowered in swings to the stage to join scores of other dressed up young women.

There is a serious ballet on the fall of Warsaw, also a good-humored fully clothed vaudeville act, and a baritone.

THE COSTUMES are elaborate, sometimes even including full masks painted to resemble knights' armor and others resembling Sevres porcelain. They are costly and heavy, too.

Miss Eileen O'Dare, American dancer with one of the leading roles, wears in one scene a beaded dress weighing about 50 pounds. She, incidentally, always appears fully dressed and obtained a contract from the management saying no nudes would be on the stage the same time she is.

She calls the Folies "the most lavishly dressed show I've ever seen."

Star of the small portion of nudity in the show is France's slinky Yvonne Menard. In one scene, wearing only a sparkling leaf, she voluptuously struggles against the lure of opium, only to lose in the end and be carried by evil looking characters down into a smoking pit.

In another scene she, lightly costumed as before, depicts Loretta Borgia in amorous situations with panting princes. But if today's Folies disappoint American tourists who remember Minsky's burlesque in New York and GIs who have heard their fathers talk of the Paris of yesteryear, it is no disappointment to the management.

The audience, mostly Anglo-Saxon and on the far side of forty, gave little applause to the nude scenes. The big applause came when the curtain went up on highly costumed and complicated still lifes on revolving stages.

But the management has better proof than applause that clothes make the show. Although the program is changed only about once a year, the 2,000 capacity theater is nearly always sold out several days in advance.

ALL THE SHOW is not on the stage. Equally a part of the experience of going to the Folies Bergeres is the ruckus in the lobby during intermission. Stands sell ham sandwiches as long as your forearm, lemonade, beer, coffee, and souvenirs. There is even an art gallery, presided over by a man in tuxedo. His calendar style paintings of Paris scenes are priced at 5,000 to 20,000 francs (about $14 to $70).

Cutting through the beer and tobacco laden air is a loud speaker's blare of Arabian music coming from the basement, where for another 100 francs you can see la danse du ventre (belly dance).

The belly dance is ground out by tired, veiled women who must have been doing the same thing when Lindbergh landed in 1926. The spectators sit on long benches peering through the smoke in the dim, low ceilinged room.

When they climb back to the lobby and head for the auditorium they pass a sign in French and English saying: "Aware! Do not drop chewing gums (correct) on the carpets. Thanks."

It is estimated that wheat products supply about 25 percent of the protein in the average American diet.

No Agreement On Proposals Of Water Co.

Council And Company
Officials Discuss
Changes Asked

Although no agreement was reached between city council and officials of the Ohio Water Service Co., meeting in executive session at the council rooms Wednesday night, there was evidence that definite progress was being made on matters under discussion. No rate increases are involved.

The discussion lasted for more than 1 1/2 hours, and at the conclusion belief was expressed that agreement would be reached soon on the changes in an ordinance asked by the Water Company in connection with making extensions and providing service, including new additions.

The meeting had been arranged at a recent council session, and attending the session Wednesday night were L. P. Sharpe, vice president of the company; Troy T. Junk, local attorney for the company, and Emerson H. Warner, assistant manager.

Most of the discussion on the part of the officials was carried on by Sharpe, in answer to councilmen's questions.

Various phases of the proposed changes were taken up and gone into at some length.

The water company has made certain concessions over the original proposals, some of which were brought out at the last regular meeting of council.

No time was fixed for again taking up the proposed ordinance.

The entire session was carried on in a most friendly and frank manner and it was stated after that it was believed the company and city officials would soon reach a complete agreement soon.

Comane, a Catholic priest. The first baby, hospital officials said, gave a healthy scream as the water was poured on its head.

HOSPITAL officials described baptism so soon as the "usual precautionary measure." It is often done in premature births.

The infants, due Aug. 15, were nearly two months premature, but physicians explained that such multiple births rarely go full term. According to medical sources quadruplets occur once in every 680,000 births.

X-rays taken at the time Mrs. Manning entered the hospital in May indicated she would give birth to quadruplets.

Nurses at the hospital said Mrs. Manning "was wonderful throughout. When she was having severe pains early in labor she never murmured."

The spare, white-haired Dr. Ryan said, "It is a great responsibility to deliver so many babies but it is a privilege for a physician, too."

Dr. Yale David Koskoff performed the operation, explaining he had to cut a hole in Wright's skull, inserted an instrument and severed some brain fibers.

Since his release, Wright said he had worked as a hospital orderly and for a candy company.
